

About Swisscom Energy Solutions

Founded in September 2012, Swisscom Energy Solutions AG develops flexible and modular solutions for the Swiss and international energy industry.

Using expertise drawn from both the telecommunication and energy sectors, the company proposes innovative and leading technological solutions.

Its modular platform allows it to efficiently connect any type of electrical device in order to make the most out of existing and new flexibility.

Swisscom Energy Solutions delivers added value to all actors of the energy market: from end customers to utilities and grids, as well as to the community as a whole.

tiko

Digitalizing energy

powered by  swisscom

tiko is unique. We manage loads in real-time using residential devices.

We are experts

100% of the solution is designed in-house in Switzerland: hardware, software, interfaces. Our extensive know-how and full ownership enable us to offer tailor made solutions.

We created a brain

Our unique algorithm, developed by our team, learns every day from the residential devices it's controlling in real time. 3 years of per second collected data from tens of thousands of devices are feeding our artificial intelligence and enabling us to offer solutions to help our partners profit from their flexibility.

We are universal

Our partners are utilities and device manufacturers. All find in tiko the perfect solution to reach their goals as we adapt to serve their ambition with short time to market.

We are industrial grade

Tens of thousands of prosumers' devices are already connected to the tiko network which has been delivering ancillary services to the Swiss Grid since 2013. We are also proving services to partners all around Europe.

We are looking forward to creating the ideal solution for you.
